Trash Barrel Cleaning – Black Trash Barrels Only

The steam/pressure washing procedure is now complete for this round of trash barrel maintenance. The District implemented this one-time service to see how effective the cleaning would be and how long the barrels would remain clean.

The barrels that were cleaned on the first round in late December are for the most part still fairly clean but really it's a bit early to judge how long the cleaning will hold up.

Each Monday after trash collection a random inspection will be conducted to monitor the condition of the barrels. Over the next few months we'll be able to get a better idea of how effective the program is.

One good thing to come out of this is the detection of many black barrels with the bottoms worn through. Over the next few weeks CR&R will be replacing these damaged barrels with new ones.

The contractor is charging $3.00 per barrel for this first round of cleaning. The competition wanted $12.00 per barrel.
