Introduction of New Security Post Commander

Welcome Kevin Gieselman (pronounce gee-selman), the District's new security supervisor/day shift patrol officer. Kevin comes to us from a five year tour in the Marine Corps where he spent his duty as a military linguist, specializing in the Afghan language, Pashto, translating written material such as newspapers, magazines, books, etc., for military security purposes.

The District Manager has requested that, beginning with the February board meeting, Kevin be in attendance to present the monthly security report. It will be more useful to the Board and homeowners to have the officer most familiar with daily security activities present for discussion.

Also new to our security staff on the graveyard shift is Andrae Riley who has come to us from another security company with extensive late-night patrol experience. Andrae is married and prefers this shift which allows him time at home during the day with his children.

With these two officers now placed at our post, all the shifts for both patrol and the gate are filled.
